BEER OR LEMONADE? CAN'T DECIDE? TRY A RADLER!

A "Radler," meaning "cyclist" in German, was invented to refresh German bicyclists.

This delicious mixture of beer and lemon or grapefruit soda is a fun addition to summer barbecues and deck parties.

– 1 cup of fresh lemon juice (4 to 6 lemons)

– 1 cup sugar

– 1 cup boiling water

– 3 cups cold water

– Craft lager, pilsner or ale. Try Bent Paddle Pilsner or Blonde Ale ($9.99, 6-pack cans)

Add sugar to boiling water and stir until dissolved. Mix sugar water and lemon juice in a pitcher. Add cold water and let cool. Combine beer with equal portions of lemonade. Note: prepared lemonade (not powdered) can be substituted.

Alternatively, try this easy, do-it-yourself recipe! All you need is some of your favorite lager or Hefeweizen (local brew preferred) and some sparkling lemon or grapefruit soda. Just make a 50/50 or 60/40 blend of the two and you can toast to German ingenuity.
